THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 15.

A LAWYER in Dayton, Ohio, had in his office a particularly industrious student. One of the clients was a young and pretty woman, and her consultations with the lawyer were al.

Ways held in his private room, behind closed the transportation of freight and passongers, and will run their steamers regularly as follows: doors. The student became anxious to learn about the case that required so much secret discussion. He peoped and listened at the keyhole, and was rewarded by the knowledge that, while the legal business related to the collection of small debts, most of the interviews were devoted to courtship. The lawyer desired the woman to marry him, while she being wealthy teared that his motive was mercenary. On the occasion of her next call the lawyer was not in, and the student politely informed her that, although be had not been admitted to the bar, he was confident that he could deal satisfactorily with her case. She said no, but he persisted, popped the question on the spot, urged his suit elequantly, and was accepted. The lawyer, in revenge, tried to whip him, and that was how the story got out.

Queen Victoria left golden opinions behind her in Italy. She talked with case and kindness to the poor washerwoman by the lake, and the olivewood workers in their shop; she stopped her carriage and spoke pleasantly to the peasant boss, who doffed their caps as she passed, and she took great delight in the lovely scenery about her. She has returned to England in vigorous health.

KRUPP has just turned out two monster can. non, and one of them will required 550 pounds of powder, and will discharge a ball weighing 2,200 pounds. Little incidents like this, taken in connection with the warlike front presented by almost every ustion on the globe, tend to cast a damper on the enthusiasm of peace con-
